BRITISH CABINET MAY RESIGN IMMEDIATELY

King Returns to London and Premier Asquith Holds Many Conferences

Believed Monarch Has Refused to Create More Peers to Help Liberals

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.) London, Nov. 16.—King George returned to London today and it is believed this unexpected visit is connected with the political situation. At a meeting of Liberal agents, but four out of a hundred voted for an immediate election. On his arrival from Sandringham today King George received Premier Asquith. The postponement by the government of the announcement of the resignation, said the frequent communications between the King and the cabinet have deepened the impression that his Majesty may have refused to give a guarantee of the creation of new peers.

Under the circumstances, the resignation of the cabinet appears more probable than an immediate dissolution of parliament. In inner political circles there is a conviction that the monarch will have difficulty in observing the danger of being involved in a crisis.

Extreme Liberal papers hint that King George has already taken sides with the house of Lords in the great controversy. The Daily News, which is supposed to reflect the opinion of King David Lloyd-George, says that the resignation of the cabinet would mean that a monarchical revolution had been preferred to the creation of peers.

TO HAVE SUBWAY ON JASPER AVE

Original Agreement Between City and C.P.R. Will Be Adhered To.

WAS MISTAKE IN PLANS

Company Says Line Runs On Street Level, Not Eight Feet Lower.

The original agreement between the C. P. R. and the city relative to the Jasper Avenue subway is being adhered to. Following the agreement between the two parties, the C. P. R. submitted profiles of the plans which showed that the grade of the track is to be placed on Ninth street to the eight feet below the level of the street. The city officials noticed this and informed the railway that if such was done, a subway would be impossible. If, however, the company persisted in such a grade, the city suggested that it be made still lower and make possible the construction of an overhead bridge running east and west.

The C. P. R. now states that it was through a mistake by their engineering department that the eight-foot grade was included in the plans, and offer to submit new profiles showing a grade about the level of Jasper Avenue. The subway, therefore, will be built.

STRIKE GAS AT WETASKIWIN

(Special to the Capital) Wetaskiwin, Nov. 16.—Small pockets of gas were struck by the gas drillers here and it is expected that a large flow will be encountered at any time. The diamond drill is now down 200 feet and the frequency of small gas pockets, has given rise to the belief that a gigantic well is near at hand.

SENDING SUBMARINES TO HONG-KONG STATION

London, Nov. 16.—Announcement is made in naval circles that early next year a flotilla of sub-marines will be sent to Hong-Kong to be stationed there permanently. Other flotillas of the same craft will be sent later to Gibraltar and other stations.

ARMED PATROL IN STREETS

Picturesque Corps on Guard in Mexico City to Prevent Riots

IS ANTI-AMERICAN

People Fell Strongly—May Declare Boycott Against All American Goods

Mexico City, Nov. 16.—A squadron of picturesque rurales, hastily collected in from the cañals and "bad man" country, garbed in buckskin and sombreros, patrolled the streets of this city today with their rifles slung across their saddles, ready for instant use. However, while quietness prevailed on the surface, plans were going forward for a great mass meeting which will be held soon, when a boycott will likely be inaugurated against all American goods and all stores employing Americans.

An outbreak is threatened every moment, as the students of the School of Jurisprudence are clamoring for official sanction of another anti-American demonstration. Cuahajalpa, Mexico, Nov. 16.—A mob of 500 Mexicans attacked American property here yesterday, destroying it and driving Americans to stay in the town upon penalty of their lives. With cries of "Down with America" and "Death to all Americans," the mob surged through the streets, plying the torch and throwing clubs and stones.

The damage will go into thousands of dollars, but the Mexican police stood by while the depredations were going on. They declared that they could not cope with the numbers in the mob.

STILL FORGING AHEAD

The volume of business done in Edmonton continues to increase steadily as shown in the following comparative table figures, compiled by Secretary Fisher of the Board of Trade:

	Oct., 1909	Oct., 1910	Inc. P. C.
Customs Returns	$ 20,455	$ 30,870	52
Building Permits	2,627,207	2,655,079	75
Bank Clearings	4,450,435	6,927,023	55
Post Office (Stamps Only)	5,864	7,026	20
Street Railway
Passengers Carried	247,566	337,096	36
Revenue	$70,224	$133,915	36

TOTAL FOR FIRST TEN MONTHS

	Oct., 1909	Oct., 1910	Inc. P. C.
Custom Returns	$255,532	$384,880	50
Building Permits	2,627,207	2,655,079	75
Bank Clearings	40,365,339	55,324,815	36
Post Office (Stamps Only)	58,747	65,335	11
Street Railway
Passengers Carried	1,684,552	2,043,595	75
Revenue	$710,116	$1,263,383	80

So far as bank clearings may be taken as an indication of volume of business, Edmonton is experiencing a more rapid expansion in business than any other city in Canada. It will be noticed that the remarkable rate of increase in clearings shown by previous bulletins has been maintained, and clearings for the year to date are 26 per cent. greater than for the corresponding period of 1909. This increase is accounted for principally by expansion in the business of the wholesalers and manufacturers. This expansion is no doubt largely attributable to the satisfactory agricultural conditions generally prevailing in territory to which Edmonton wholesalers distribute, and to the great development taking place as a result of the phenomenal influx of a very desirable class of settlers into Edmonton territory.

TO MODIFY NAVAL BILL?

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—There is a persistent report current here that Laurier will bring forward legislation early in the session modifying the naval bill. The reason advanced is that the government supporters of the province of Quebec in order to save their seats from the rising tide of Boussism, are demanding something more substantial than a campaign of education, which they claim might even work more to their disadvantage than the Nationalist campaign. The only thing that will suit them is said to be a definite declaration in the bill that the ships of Canada must be used solely for the defence of Canadian coasts and not participate at all in any of England's wars.

GIRLIES OF FIVE AND SIX COME 6000 MILES ALONE

Hilda and Phyllis Heath Reached Strathcona From England Tagged Like Baggage—Had Wagon Load of Toys. Presents from Fellow Passengers.

Their aggregate years hardly reaching eleven, Hilda and Phyllis Heath, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. M. Heath, arrived in Strathcona last night, after travelling across an ocean and a continent, a distance of 6000 miles, alone. They were put on the train at Sheffield, England, tagged like merchandise. A broad leather belt surrounding the waist of each, with painted letters reading, "To Mr. M. Heath, Strathcona, Alberta, Canada, per S. S. Empress of Britain, c/o C. P. R. Ry."

"Uncle Joe made it," said Hilda, aged six, "and he put us on the train, too."

"Did you like your trip?" she was asked.

"Of course we did, but I didn't like to leave grandma. Uncle Joe said he would make a belt for grandma and send her here, too."

The little pilgrims were met by their father and mother and an impromptu reception was held on the station platform. Phyllis introduced her fellow travellers and after gathering a team load of toys the happy party were driven home.

From the time they were put on the great liner at Southampton, attention to their slightest want never ceased. Their tickets were handed to the purser and on landing at Quebec he turned them over to the conductor of the Transcontinental Limited.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 16.—The Minister of Education has decided that girls have no right to wear silk petticoats in school, "because the rustle interferes with the lessons." The girls are up in arms against the decision and will have to abide by it or leave college. The Minister of Cst. decided the case in favor of several young college professors, who said rustling silk petticoats drew their minds from their work.

Hinted He Will Run If Another Announces Candidature—Municipal League Not Likely to Name Man for Mayor—Death of Alderman Candidates.

At three o'clock this afternoon, Alderman Garipey announced to the Capital that he was out of the running for the mayoralty. "You may announce," he said "that I shall not be a candidate for personal reasons. Neither will I contest my aldermanic seat."

When the Capital saw Mr. Garipey this morning he was still undecided.

This withdrawal from the contest by Alderman Garipey will give an opportunity to the Municipal Improvement League to nominate a candidate to contest the election with Alderman Armstrong.

The intention of the municipal league to name a candidate for the mayoralty is a matter of great importance. The league will not have a candidate in the field for the mayor's chair. The Municipal league, it is said, does not relish Alderman Garipey as mayor for 1911, nor has it any particular desire to see Alderman Armstrong installed in the office, although the latter subscribed to most of the league's platform. And further the league anticipates that to place a candidate of their own in the field would immediately cut forth the candidature of Alderman Garipey, with bright chances for his election. It appears that they would rather submit to an Armstrong regime.

What developments will transpire between now and nomination day are only open to conjecture.

The city is still in the market for aldermanic candidates, and it would be ever so much obliged if some kind gentlemen would step up and be received into the honorable body. There are at least five vacancies.

It is probable that the three retiring members of the public school board, Messrs. W. H. Clarke, W. Ramsay, and W. D. Forth, will seek re-election. Messrs. A. T. Cushing, and P. T. Butchart have still another year to serve.

MAY DELAY CONSIDERATION OF CIVIC CHARTER AMENDMENTS

Stated Applications for Amendments May Be Shelved Until Next Year—Independent Farmers' Candidate Lines Up With Opposition.

It was learned by the Capital this morning that there is some talk of having the applications for amendments to civic charters held over until the next session of the legislature in view of the large number of matters requiring the attention of the house this session. It is considered that as the legislation in regard to charters is not of a permanent character, and that application for amendments are made nearly every session, they could easily be shelved until next year.

The second reading of the bill respecting the collection of charges on land contained in certain instruments introduced on Monday by Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, will be discussed in the legislature this afternoon, and will then be referred to the legal bill committee. The bill is designed to prevent the foreclosure of certain mortgages on land given by farmers as security of payment for threshing machines. Up to the present in the event of non-payment on a specified date by the farmers for threshing machines, under the mortgage which they are obliged to sign, they surrender all the land and real estate they possess. The agreement which they sign is not such that can be clearly understood by the farmers and consequently many find themselves in a very awkward position. The bill is not designed to interfere with the possible desire of any farmer to mortgage his property as security under a regular agreement, but its purpose is to render illegal such agreements as explained.

The committee on standing orders held its initial session in the legislative assembly chambers this morning, for the discussion of rules, while a meeting of the committee on Colonization and Agriculture is called for tomorrow morning.

FINGER PRINT IS MURDERER'S DOOM

GLOVE IS CRIME'S NEED

First Conviction by Lines in Hand, Challenge of Defense Was Fatal.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Identification by finger prints put the hangman's rope around the neck of Thomas Jennings, a negro, yesterday was convicted of the murder of Clarence Hiller, former chief clerk in the local freight office of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway.

It is the first murder case on record in which the finger print system of identification was relied upon for a conviction.

Criminals have been convicted of burglary and lesser crimes by the introduction of "finger print evidence," but it remained for a jury in Judge Kavanaugh's court to vote the death penalty on mere testimony of this nature.

Now that the criminal classes are menaced by the finger print system, George Poncasso, an expert in criminology, propounds this question:

"Will the future householder wear gloves to foil the police in procuring glove print evidence?"

Established Bertillon System.

Mr. Porteous established the Bertillon system of identification in the United States about twenty years ago. "I have followed the Hiller case closely," he said, "and there is no doubt of the identification. The finger prints found on the back porch railing of the Hiller house are those of Jennings. There are thirty-three similar prints in the comparison of three finger prints or impressions, and this makes identification infallible. "The criminal of the future will wear gloves so as to make it impossible for the police to obtain a crime upon him by means of the finger print system. There are no reliable marks or lines of identification on gloves—none, at least, upon which a conviction could be procured."

Gloves Might Have Saved Jennings. "One pair of gloves of a certain make is like another. But it is different with a person's hands or fingers. No two hands are exactly alike. If Jennings had worn gloves the night he entered the Hiller's house I don't think he would have been convicted."

even though he had a criminal record. "The finger print evidence, and that alone convinced the jury of his guilt." The story of the arrest and conviction of Jennings would provide material for a Sherlock Holmes murder mystery. Three policemen of the South English station were at the corner of One hundred and Third street and Vancouver road waiting for a street car at 2.30 o'clock on the morning of September 10 last. They had not heard of the killing of Hiller, which occurred half a mile distant twenty minutes before.

Jennings stopped by a police officer. He was halted by the three patrolmen and asked to give an account of himself. He said his name was Jones and that he was running to catch a car. A thirty-eight caliber revolver was found on him. Blood stains also were found on his clothing.

He was taken to the South English station, and when the officers arrived there they learned of the Hiller murder at 1837 West One Hundred and Fourth street. The patrol wagon had been sent by a neighbor of Hiller, who telephoned the manager of the killing and the escape of the slayer.

In their investigation the police learned that a burglar had entered the Hiller home shortly after 2 o'clock by climbing through a rear window.

A daughter of the family was awakened and her screams brought Mr. Hiller from his bedroom. He struggled with the thief, and both rolled down a flight of stairs.

Killer at Foot of Stairs. At the bottom of the stairway the burglar fired two shots into Hiller's body, killing him instantly. He escaped through the front door.

Capt. M. P. Evans of the bureau of identification was notified of the case a few hours later and went to the South English station. He recognized the negro as Thomas Jennings, a paroled convict. Jennings was convicted of burglary in November, 1905, and was sentenced to the penitentiary. He was paroled in 1909, and on December 6 of that year he was arrested for burglary at Harvey, Ill.

Instead of being tried for this case he was sent back to prison for violation of parole. On August 3 of this year he was again released on parole. Six weeks later he killed Hiller. In the hope that there might be some finger print clew to the murder, Capt. Evans went to the Hiller house and made an investigation. He found evidence of how the burglar entered the house through a rear window and how the window was a porch railing that had been freely painted.

Finds Prints That Hang

On this railing were finger prints made, presumably, by the robber. Capt. Evans took the section of porch railing to his office and there developed the finger prints. He then compared the prints with an impression of Jennings' left hand and found thirty-three similar points of identification. When he compared the impressions he felt positive that Jennings was the murderer of Hiller.

"Attorney Anderson, who defended Jennings, unwittingly convicted his client by asking me if I could take 'finger prints' of his fingers," said Evans. "He was stammering."

The jury, when he asked me if I could take his finger prints, from a railing in front of the city hall.

"I stepped from the witness chair to get railing and felt it. It's surface was rough, and I told Mr. Anderson that I could not take the impression."

"Can you take it on this book?" he then asked, touching his fingers to a page.

"I replied 'yes,' and in less than a minute I had sprinkled a powder on the spot where Mr. Anderson's fingers rested, and the impressions were taken."

"One of the jurors told my son William that Anderson put the rope around his client's neck when he asked me to take an impression of his fingers."

HUSBAND SLEW WIFE MURDERER

They Fled to America From Far-off Armenia to Escape His Wrath.

WHEN ARRESTED SAID:

"They Killed Her, I Killed Them. It Is Well, I Am Now Satisfied."

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 16.—Fleeing to this country for safety from a murder charge against them in far-off Armenia, in the recent Christmas massacres in that country, Mohammad Ahmad and Ahmad Noory today unexpectedly found a Nemesis in the husband of the woman they were accused of murdering.

Ahmad fled from a bullet from the revolver of the avenging husband, and Noory is in the hospital, fatally injured by another bullet from the same weapon.

Dogos Matsukhan, the assassin, is in jail, following the tragedy, which culminated on the steps of the post-office in the very heart of the city.

"They killed her, I killed them. It is well, I am glad," he said.

Uttering this bit of Armenian fatalism, Matsukhan calmly lighted a cigarette in the county jail and related the story of the murder of his wife, whom he had left in Armenia while he came to America to make a new home for his family.

I knew both men in Armenia," Matsukhan said, "they still live at my house, and were supposed to be friends of my family. During the recent massacres I received word that Ahmad and Noory maltreated and finally killed my wife. I swore then that if I ever came across the men their lives would pay the penalty. Luckily for me, they came right to this city, not knowing I was here. They got what they deserved, and the authorities can do what they wish with me. I am satisfied. My honor has been avenged."

STRATHCONA COUNCIL.

The petition for union with Edmonton was submitted at last night's meeting of the Strathcona council.

Mr. John Walters, who has had charge of it from the beginning, stated to the council that an addition to the petition submitted, which had nearly three hundred signatures another petition dealing with this question was being circulated and strongly urged that some action be taken. As it involves a change in the charter of the city it was on the motion of Ald. Bush referred to the committee to deal with amendments to the charter.

The question of Sunday car was raised by a petition signed by 71 taxpayers. Ald. Calder and Mayor Duggan support of the cars was laid to find a second and in view of the small attendance the matter was left over until the next regular meeting.

A letter from Commissioner Dillmore asked the co-operation of Edmonton in urging the government to 40 power rights along the principal rivers to supply the municipalities of Alberta. A resolution of endorsement of the movement was accordingly passed.

Sever estimates for 1917 were submitted by Engineer McLean. The total is $365,688.

Accounts of $100,000 were submitted and paid.

The Exhibition offered the city a three months option on the old fair grounds for $32,000. A by-law passed at the meeting will be submitted to the ratepayers at the coming elections.

On July 25th last the city was notified by the city of Edmonton, that the order of the attorney-general, Boyd, is perfectly rational on other subjects, but on the topic of religion is broached he becomes a ravine maniac. He was getting worse and worse.

Three trucks were fined $1 and costs or 10 days.

THE LATEST SWINDLE

From the Springfield Republican New York leads the most-civilized world in the matter of clever beggars, and it is a dull day that does not develop some new swindling trick on Fifth avenue or Broadway. The newest mendicant is a product of the club district, a well-groomed man, who appears with the "after-dinner" speech, dressed in perfect evening dress, and explaining that he is a club man who didn't remember to have his valet put his purse in the immaculate white waistcoat. So he wants to borrow $1 for cab fare, will give his card and send a check in the morning. It is "good graft," paying $10 or so every night.

MUSIC AND ANIMALS

Most of the Things of the Wild Are Influenced Either by Singing or Playing.

Many of the forest folk are very fond of music and seem to take as much pleasure in it as we do ourselves. A young bluejay at one time spent two months as a guest in my home. We all know what marsh voices the jays have. Add any one ever hear a jay sing a sweet, tuneful little song, I wonder? asks a writer in the Nashville Visitor? While the small jay lived with me it was my custom to practice singing for half an hour every morning. No sooner had I started to sing at the piano and struck a few chords than "J-J-J" dropped over the door and settled himself on the rung of a near-by chair.

He listened with rapt attention, and as I finished he tried a bit of song himself. At first I had to stop and laugh, his performance was so amusing; but after a few weeks' practice he could sing very sweetly—not exactly the tunes he heard, but little ones that he made up as he went along. His notes pleased him he began to sing. A heavy chander shaver or the whir of the sewing machine always moved him to express his delight in song.

More than two hundred years ago a young violinist, Isidore Berthame, was obliged to practice on his violin many hours daily. One day he saw a spider creeping at him from his crack in the wall. Soon it ventured forth, and every day it grew a little bolder, down irresistibly by the sweet sounds from Isidore's fiddle.

At last one day the spider had got so great pleasure of seeing the spider take its place on the bow arm. Presently his stepmother, coming into the room and seeing the spider, killed it with a blow of her slipper. The death of this pet was such a blow to the boy that he fell fainting to the floor, and was ill for three months afterward.

When the great herds of cattle on the range grow restless, the boys sing them to sleep and often prevent a stampede in that way. They say that the steers are specially fond of "My Bonnie," "Loren," and "The Cowboy's Lament."

Squirrels and mice are ardent music lovers. Dr. Chace, tells that one day while working in the woods he sang to a bird in Italian opera, and (dancing to look around he saw a number of squirrels all listening with delight to the song. The next time you can take a woodland ramble try singing a few songs; or, if you play a lute or fiddle, play a few and you will find what effect it has upon your little forest friends.

HUGHES MAY BE CHIEF JUSTICE

Democrat Victory Has Made It Impossible for Root to Get Position

BUT HARLAN HAS CHANCE

President Taft's Dearest Ambition is Said to Be to Get Position Himself.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The Democratic victory in New York having removed the possibility of Senator Root becoming Chief Justice of the United States, it was reported here today that Associate Justice Hughes is now far more likely than ever before of succeeding to the highest seat in the American judiciary.

If Root should resign as Senator, the Democratic Legislature in New York would name a Democrat to succeed him. With one Democrat Senator from New York as a certainty, Root would not consider such a step, it is said.

Persons who are supposed to be in the confidence of the President, say that he has not made up his mind finally, but that Hughes now is the most favored candidate. There is strong support back of a movement to induce the President to name President Justice Harlan, however.

Those who favor Harlan declare that the fact that he is 77 years of age is in his favor. It is pointed out that at the time of Harlan's retirement, in all likelihood, Taft might be eligible to succeed him, and that, it is freely said, is Taft's highest ambition. Hughes, on the other hand, would probably serve many years as a Chief Justice. The names of Hughes and Harlan would present the possibility of a Democratic President appointing a Chief Justice for a long time at least.

JAPANESE WOMEN IN ALL INDUSTRIES

Japanese women undoubtedly play a greater part in the industry of their country than do women on the American continent. Years ago the chief industries of Japan were tea and silk and they were carried on largely by women, but recently the commerce of the country has increased greatly and the women's work has widened with it. In agriculture their work is quite as hard as that performed by men. The women may be seen in the rice fields, hoeing, planting and reaping. Thousands of women are employed in the tea fields, and the silk worm industry is practically in their hands for the constant care of the cocoons and the worms devote on them. In fact in every rural industry women are represented largely. The vexed question of women entering on men's trades does not arise in Japan. It is generally understood women do a large share of the work. There is no idea of the stronger and the weaker sex in Japan. Women manage many of the hotels, manage tea houses and are found in the factories.

When the great herds of cattle on the range grow restless, the boys sing them to sleep and often prevent a stampede in that way. They say that the steers are specially fond of "My Bonnie," "Loren," and "The Cowboy's Lament."

Squirrels and mice are ardent music lovers. Dr. Chace, tells that one day while working in the woods he sang to a bird in Italian opera, and (dancing to look around he saw a number of squirrels all listening with delight to the song. The next time you can take a woodland ramble try singing a few songs; or, if you play a lute or fiddle, play a few and you will find what effect it has upon your little forest friends.

TOOTH IN CANNED BEEF

Discovery Followed Finding of Dog's Paw in Tin of Tongue

New Orleans.—Closely following on the heels of the discovery of a dog's paw in a can of preserved tongue operated by Philip Vresinski, a merchant at Jackson, La., formal complaint was made to the United States Food Inspection bureau by Francis Dayle, of 518 Fifth street, this city, that he found a human tooth in a can of corned beef bearing the label of the same Chicago packing house mentioned in Vresinski's letter to Professor E. L. McGee, chemist in charge of the government laboratory.

Dayle's discovery was made exhibit: A-the tooth itself. It is from a man who was equipped with molars of the usual size. The elms are rounded as though the tooth had slid through the meat-grinding machine.

Professor McGee was asked to let a reporter copy the Vresinski letter. The document was forwarded yesterday to the chief inspector of the pure food bureau in Washington. Professor McGee has demanded that the Jackson merchant return to New Orleans the case of canned goods under suspicion, that a chemical analysis may be made. Until its contents are tested nothing official will be given out.

Professor McGee said the name of the Chicago packing house was mentioned in Vresinski's letter, but declined to tell it until it has been legally established that the house is criminally negligent.

FAILS TO RESCUE DIETZ GIRL

Milwaukee Man Attempts to Take Outlaw's Daughter from Ashland Hospital—Deputies Thwart Him

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 16.—A sensational scene took place at St. Joseph's hospital today, in which an attempt by Milwaukee sympathizers to remove Myra Dietz was frustrated.

George Schultze, president of the Dietz defense fund of Milwaukee, arrived at Ashland last night and announced his intention to remove Miss Dietz from the hospital to Hayward and thence to Milwaukee. He claimed authority from her parents and Sheriff Madden of Sawyer county.

Deputy sheriffs and hospital physicians prevented Miss Dietz's removal. Schultze said he would go to Hayward, arrange bonds, and return here and get Miss Dietz.

SOMEONE WORKING

It was admitted yesterday morning by Mr. Geo. Wilson president of the local plasterers, that two or three plasterers were engaged on the Moser and Ryder building on First street.

"We have tried to get in to find out but so far have been carefully fenced out. I do know that a week ago Sunday plastering was being done on the building. In neither case do we know who the plasterers are."

"No, it can be done of our men," said Mr. Wilson, in answer to an inquiry. "The man who was working a week ago Sunday was a chap who came up from the States, stopped two days in Calgary and came on here—probably one of those fellows who moves from place to place, drops in wherever there is a strike and lights out again."

It is understood that a number of plasterers are leaving town today, though nothing of that has as yet been given out by the plasterers.

Buying by Faith as Well as by Sight

WHATEVER automobile you eventually buy to a great extent you buy it by faith in the men who make it. You can see the style. You can see the finish. You can feel the comfort. You can detect the noise or the silence of its running.

But what of the quality underlying it all—the quality of steel in the gears—the accuracy of alignment—the perfection of fitted parts?

Here is what we claim:

That nowhere in the world is a better car made than the Russell. That nowhere is there better material or greater skill employed. That nowhere is there another car so perfectly designed for service in Canada.

That not in Canada is there another organization to compare with the far-reaching Russell organization for taking care of its cars wherever they go.

FORTUNES ON CANVAS

Some of the Great Sales Realized in the Art Sales at Christie's in London.

Over £1,300,000 has been spent on art treasures at Christie's Rooms in London, England, during the year 1910. The picture sales of the season compare favorably in interest, with famous disposals in the past, such as the great Gilt sale in 1872, when a sum of £164,501 was realized; the Dudley sale of 1892, which yielded a turnover of over £99,000, and the Day, Cuthbertson, Gaskett and Quiller sales last year, which produced an aggregate of £300,550.

The principal sale of the year was that of the remaining portion of the Alexander Young collection, with its magnificent examples of the masters of the Baroque and Modern Dutch schools. In three days £154,000 was obtained, a result which has only been exceeded on one occasion.

The wonderful records achieved by Turner in 1908 and 1909 paled before the 12,000 guineas fetched by Corot's delightful "Bird's-Nestery" in the Young sale. The remarkable prices obtained throughout this sale afford an encouraging commentary on the value of the George Saiting bequest, which was bought chiefly from this collection. The rapid rise in favor of the painters of the Corot school in recent years has brought considerable profit to those whose earlier appreciation of their works led them to collect when prices were low.

In the Day sale last year the net profit amounted to about half the total sum realized, and the dispersals of 1910 have furnished numerous instances of profitable collecting. Only £400 was paid thirty years ago for the Corot which changed hands this season at 13,000 guineas, while Constable's "Stoke-by-Newland," which realized 8,800 guineas, was bought in 1860 for 10 guineas.

Jacques' pastoral scenes were obtainable not very long ago for about 50 guineas each, whereas a small painting of a shepherd and flock by him fetched 900 guineas in the Young sale. Millet, whose little picture of a shepherdess, measuring only 8 1/4 in. by 6 1/4 in., brought in 1,050 guineas in the Young sale, was at one period of his life so poor that he could not afford to buy canvases.

The second sale of importance during the year was that of the collection formed by the late Baron Schroeder, which yielded £138,058. In this the chief treasures were the rare specimens of French decorative art, Louis XV. porcelain, gorgeous snuff-boxes, and tablet cases, and other ornate objects made in the luxurious days of Louis XV and Louis XVI.

No less than 9,000 guineas was paid for a set of three little Sevres vases which had cost little more than a quarter the sum in 1886, while a Louis XV. snuffbox, acquired for £1,000 was re-sold at £4,000.

In this sale also there was again brought under the hammer the famous sixteenth century crystal biberon which realized the record sum of 15,500 guineas after a sensational contest in 1905. As was expected, its value dropped on this occasion to £1,000. Among other high totals obtained were:

Croze Collection £72,305
 Waller Collection 60,972
 Faecle Collection 35,230
 Theobald Collection 34,668
 Armstrong Collection 31,077

The results of the various picture sales indicate that the trend of art collecting remains the same as in the last few years. The limit of price in both directions has probably been reached in this country. It is doubtful whether the once overrated mid-Victorian productions, will depreciate lower in value, while since 1902 no single picture has exceeded in price Hopper's "Lady Louisa Manners," which was sold for the record auction price of 14,050 guineas.

AT THE CITY HALL

The mayor has been in correspondence with the Grand Trunk Pacific with a view to purchasing a quarter section of land east of the company's property at industrial sites, but the company intimates that it has no intention of selling. Negotiations have also been carried on with the Hudson Bay Company for the purchase of land on Twenty-first street, and although the company refuse to sell the property, it is probable the city is willing to consider indirect applications from abstracting a concept for locations.

Suffered for Years From Constipation and Sick Headache.

Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief. The most frequent of all are bilious or sick headaches, and are caused by some derangement of the stomach or bowels, or both.

Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the digestive and biliary organs, removes acidity of the stomach, improves digestion, regulates the constipated bowels, and promotes a perfect circulation of pure blood to all portions of the body.

Mrs. C. Meadows, Chatham, Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled with sick headache and dizziness, and was also constipated. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I only took three bottles of the medicine, and now feel like a new person as I am completely cured. I can truthfully testify that B.D.B. is the best medicine I have ever used."

Burdock Blood Bitters, has, during the last 65 years, built up an unrivalled reputation as a cure for all troubles arising from a constipated condition of the bowels.

The Conquest of Canaan

Joe had often nussed on the street many times since the funeral clerk had wheeled at him. Probably demonstrations of that sort would have continued had he remained in Canaan, but for almost a month he had been absent and his office closed, its threshold gray with dust. There were people who believed that he had run away again, this time never to return, among those who "tuned to his opinion" being Mrs. Londen and her sister, Joe's step-aunt. Upon only one point was everybody agreed—that twelve men could not be found in the county who could be so far persuaded and befuddled by Londen that they would deride him for a fool to escape. The women of Canaan, incensed by the terrible circumstances of the case, as the Toesin called it, and the fact that the latter had been in the act of begging his enemy's forgiveness—clamored as loudly as the men. There was only the difference that the latter vociferated in the language of happy; their good ladies used the word "punishment."

And yet, while the place rang with condemnation of the little man in the jail and his attorney, there were voices here and there uplifted on the other side of the divide. It was said that appeared, who liked Happy Fear. These were for the greater part obscure and even darling in their lives, yet they demonstrated human beings able to smile, suffer, leap, run and entertain feelings; even to love, as certain men, in a certain manner, in a certain sense of right and wrong, in spite of which they strongly favored the prisoner's acquittal. Precisely on that account, it was argued, an acquittal would outrage Canaan and lay it open to untold danger. Such people were a lesson.

The Toesin later viewed the town's great ones, printing their opinions of the heinousness of the crime and the character of the defendant's lawyer.

"The Hon. P. J. Barrett, who so fully represented this county in the legislature some fourteen years ago, could scarcely restrain himself when approached by a reporter as to his sentiments about the repulsive deed. 'I should like to know how long Canaan is going to put up with this sort of business,' were his words. 'I am a law abiding citizen, and I have served faithfully and with my full endeavor and ability to enact the laws and statutes of my state, but there is a point in my patience, I would state, which lawbreakers and their lawyers may not safely pass. Of what use are our most solemn enactments, I may even ask, what use is the legislature itself, when by the will of the people, they are to ruthlessly be set aside by criminals and their ability protectors? The blame should be put upon the lawyers who by tricks enable such rascals to escape the just of the carefully enacted laws, the blots of the solemn labor, more than upon the criminals themselves. In any case if there is any miscarriage of justice I will say here and now that in my opinion the people of this county will be sorely tempted, and, while I do not believe in such law, yet it is that should be the result of my unalterable conviction that the vigilantes may well turn their attention to the lawyers or lawyer who brings about such miscarriage. I am sick of it.'"

The Toesin did not print the interview it obtained from Louis Farbach—the same Louis Farbach who long ago had owned a beer saloon with a little room behind the bar, where a shabby boy sometimes played dominoes and seven up with his partners, not quite the same Louis Farbach, however, in outward circumstance, for he was now the brewer of Farbach beer and making Canaan famous. His rise had been zealous and sure, and he contributed one-twentieth of his income to the German Orphan asylum and one-tenth to his party's campaign fund. The twentieth saved the orphans from the county, while the title gave the county to his party.

He occupied a kitchen chair, enjoying the society of some chickens in a wire enclosure behind the new Italian villa he had erected in that part of Canaan where he would be most uncomfortable, and he looked woefully at the reporter when the latter put his question.

"If you any acquaintance of Minister Fear?" he inquired in return, with no expression discernible either upon his gargantuan face or in his heavily folded eyes.

"No, sir," replied the reporter, grinning. "I never ran across him."

"Dot iss a good thing fer you," said Mr. Farbach stonily. "He iss not a man poosible bodier try to run across. It iss what Gory tried. Now Gory iss dead."

The reporter, slightly puzzled, lit a cigarette. "See here, Mr. Farbach," he urged, "I only want a word or two about this thing, and you might give me some concerning that man Londen besides, just a hint of what you think of his influence here, you know, and of the kind of sharp work he practices. Something like that."

"I see," said the brewer slowly. "Happy Fear I heff known for a good many years. He iss a good friend of mine."

TO LOOK FOR CANDIDATES

Municipal League Will Ask Best Class of Men to Run for Civic Office—Small Attendance But Much Enthusiasm.

The meeting of the Edmonton Municipal Improvement League held in the Oddfellows hall, Namsay last evening, was small, but enthusiastic if the speakers' eloquence was any criterion. Several speakers protested against the systematic boycotting to which the league had submitted since its inception and Secretary Clarke stated that if their enemies did succeed in killing it, a new organization would succeed it to fight the battle for democracy to secure to the taxpayers their rights.

The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting in Norway. Mr. Clarke explained that the slim attendance of the present meeting was due to the failure to make it known before hand and the numerous other attractions of the evening. "This league," said Mr. Clarke, "has met with great success since its organization. I agree with Mr. Potter that it is time for candidates to get in the field, as the Capital suggests and I believe this small crowd here is as capable and more so, of nominating men for the elections as the meetings held in the dark that nominate candidates for our municipal officers."

Mr. Clarke then referred to the pledge required of every candidate by the league and pointed out that it was the only way the league could remain solid on the men they put in the field. He also urged that a meeting be held Friday to suggest names to be passed on at a mass meeting to take place some time next week.

As it was impossible to go on with the business of selecting men, several of those present were called on for their opinion.

Mr. Wright had several grievances which he aired. He said he had been keeping them until some such league could be formed. That was the superior of the sanitary part, especially ordered by Dr. Whitlaw long before its term of usefulness had expired. The health committee had refused him any hearing on the ash-disposal business and he threatened them with publicity when they came to time. This should not be so; our aldermen were elected for the purpose of looking after our city.

Mr. Pat. Dunn thought it was up to the league to get out and look for good men. For good men are not apt to go out looking for office. In looking for a man we want a man with backbone. No skill of science could ever supply a man, with a backbone though it could replace other defective or missing parts and the backbone he possessed must be the kind that stood straight up and down—not wobbled.

The chairman, Mr. Potter, who followed up this words thought that hints also were necessary.

A stranger, who did not give his name, here took part in the discussion. He had, he said only come to the city in the last few days, but he would take the opportunity to give some of his impressions. The drawback to Edmonton was its lack of centralization. The subdivisions being put on the market by real estate men were sapping the growth of the centre. He strongly urged the adoption of the system of handling freight and passenger traffic in a, vogue in Chicago, by which the railways only touched the outskirts of the city, the trains being hauled in by electric engines, thus obviating smoke and danger.

Mr. Alex. McLeay of Norwood spoke of the work done by his little organization which had been referred to slightly by the newspapers at "A definite organization." On the other hand, they had obtained from the council practically everything for which they agitated—the Namsay ditch, the removal of the public dump in front of the school, which had spread sickness among the children, the removal of the open sewer and of the Burns' slaughter house which had bred flies in countless millions. They had been blocked at every turn, he said, by Dr. Whitlaw and the Board of Health who tried to persuade them that they did not know what they were talking about. "The big tax squalls must get most grease," he quoted in closing.

A spirited address by J. A. Clarke closed the evening. Mr. Clarke referred to the ill-will shown the league by the city fathers who never attended the meetings nor took an interest in their work. But, he was sure, indifference could never kill the league. He also went on to outline the scheme of the league, to take time by the forelock and prevent the city passing into the hands of corporations sound hand and foot. "We need able men," he said. "The ablest we have, to deal with the big financial men who would get the city into their power. Wherever transportation corporations have been allowed to do other business it has been fatal. In these business and that is not what is happening here with McKenzie going into the coal industry and fishing. We have got to keep the city out of their hands."

"At the last meeting," said Mr. Clarke, "I sat next Dr. McLean, and when the opening of the Hudson's Bay reserve was moved he said: 'The Hudson Bay Co. will never open the reserve until the C.P.R. have chosen a quarter section for terminals and then they will tie it up in Parliament with restrictions and the streets will remain closed till the end of time as the streets are from First to Tenth streets on the C.N.R. tracks.'"

"We want men to deal with these questions and not the kind of men we have. Why they would shame a high school literary society," said Mr. Clarke. "At a recent meeting of the council two leading legal lights wanted to rescind a motion and not one member of the whole council knew how to go about it."

"We want men who will not be hanked on by law and by companies and if necessary arises will go down to Ottawa and fight it out for the city's rights on the floor of the House."

A motion was made by Mr. Dunn, seconded by Mr. Wright, that the executive be empowered to approach the leading men of the city to go on the league's ticket; and that a list be prepared for submission to a meeting next week when a final draft of the ticket will be made.
